Mansfield vs. Lima.
Game Called at 3:00 P. M.
Get Reserved Seats.

The Cigarmakers arrived yesterday from Marion where rain marred a part of the schedule, and the locals will now be seen at San Felipe park for a series of seven games. Mansfield is the attraction for three more games, and with any sort of weather there should be a big crowd out at San Felipe park this afternoon.

The five remaining teams of the league are now carrying the Newark load until the franchise can be placed. Now is the time for loyal fans to show their interest in the National game. Every little admittance ticket for the Mansfield-Lima series is just that much of a boost for the league at large. The crisis is reached, and with Newark a wanderer the burden, already heavy on the other teams, is now heavier. Lima should do her part today, and the way to do it is to order a reserved seat ticket at Houck's early this morning and then go out and root for baseball. Our team deserves every consideration, but the league deserves more just at this time.

The close of the twelfth week in the Ohio State league sees the organization in a chaotic condition because of the surrender of the Newark franchise, but fortunately there are three cities, any one of which stands willing to take the franchise, and the officials of the league have no hesitancy in saying that the Newark trouble will in no manner embarrass the organization. Newark has been a losing proposition as a base ball town since its entrance into the O. & P. league but the fans have been game, that is the fans who have financed the team and not until a series of calamities in the way of a total shut-down of the bottle factory following lack of county's dry vote, the destruction of a portion of the store works, and other misfortunes throwing men out of work, did the management cease having hopes to go on and win out.

Three cities are said to be willing to take up the Newark franchise—Chillicothe and Sandusky, in Ohio, and Huntington, W. Va. Sandusky is the more generally favored because of the great transient population during the summer months when Cedar Point is crowded and lake travel heavy.

The call by Columbus of Pickett, the local twirler, did not come unexpected. Pickett has pitched good clean consistent ball this season though has not been the big winner of last year when his record was a par with that of "Red" White, now of the Boston Nationals. Before leaving Lima for Columbus this week, Pickett signed a life contract as a husband, the charming bride being Miss Goldie Carr, of this city, and the wedding was a quiet affair of Tuesday at the home of the parents of the bride.

Red Farrell continues to hit a merry clip and play centerfield for Marion in such manner as to attract the league scouts. Several small offers have been made for his services. Bill Sykes, Lima's clever first baseman is hitting this year and leading the locals. This is all he required to break into fast company and it will not be surprising to see him go up. There are four or possibly five other State leaguers who will bear watching and the scouts are already on their trail.

That Larry McLean, of the Reds has developed into a great catcher admits of no doubt. There was never a man who could throw a baseball harder with less effort. He throws entirely from the shoulder and the only reason that they steal on him is that his aim isn't as good as Bergen's. He can get a foul back at the grand stand and snap it to third or first base without moving anything but his right arm. And thereby hangs a tale. There was some criticism of Larry's throwing in Cincinnati a few years ago, but the constant reiteration that he was a bull throwing catcher got on Larry's nerves after a while and he went to Garry Herrmann and made him a business proposition. "See here," he said, "they say that I am a tramp at throwing to bases. Here is a chance for you to make some money. Put a clause in my contract by which I am to get a dollar for every time I throw a base runner out and lose a dollar every time I miss one."

Herrmann is a good sportsman and is always willing to take a chance when he sees any sort of a chance to win. He gave Larry's offer a long think and then passed it up. It would surprise you to know how little Larry's throwing has been criticized in Cincinnati since.

Larry is not a world-beater as a hitter, but there has been little criticism on his hitting. At heart Larry is more interested in another kind of hitting. He is firmly convinced that he can lick Jeffries and Johnson, and his teammates are willing to back it up. In spite of his size he is fast on his feet behind the bat and the Reds say that he is one of the best boxers in the big league. But force of circumstances has made a catcher of him. If he wanted to fight he would have to give up a good living and begin from the bottom in a new trade, and he can't afford it.

The Reds have signed Pitcher Brennan, one of the big successes of the Western league.

The Supreme court of Michigan has decided that Sunday baseball is legal in the state, thereby causing the fans in Detroit much joy.

The Jamestown, Ohio, Driving Park Association will give a one day race meeting next Saturday, July 31, for good purses. The town is only ten miles from Xenia, where the Mad River and Miami Valley Circuit meeting is held the following week.

Mechanicsburg, Ohio, will have a three days meeting next week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, $300 purses being guaranteed.

Old Jupiter, Plutus, got busy again the past week and sent in his sprinkling cart in time to knock out some of the best racing scheduled for the Lima Driving Park Company's summer meeting, but at that the meeting was a success, and the two days of bright, warm weather were acceptable. If the rain wasn't Lima has the reputation in the horse world of always giving a good meeting, and there is no reason to believe that this standard will be lowered. The racing the past week was clean, spirited and interesting and a but few classes were there any rainovers.

It was particularly unfortunate, of course that Thursday wasn't a bright clear day. Unfortunately for two reasons—first because the rain interfered with the racing and second because the Association, about the "gamest" in the business, always relies on Thursday for the "one big" day crowd. Everybody seems, who cares at all for racing and only goes one day, wants to come to the races on Thursday and as a result rain on that day cuts the total attendance down. However there was a big crowd present despite the fact that the rain came just when the people were ready to go to the Park. The attendance on the first two days was remarkably good, above the average in fact, and the fact that no fall meeting will be given, probably caused the lovers of racing to gather in October. In few cities are women admitted to the grounds free, but those you know the Lima Association is progressive in this regard and liberal as well.

Several good horses showed up at the meeting. The word "good" is about as often used where it shouldn't be, as is the word "great" in the horse world. Ofttimes when some old hopped pacer cuts loose with a fast quarter and is never afterwards heard from he is designated as great. But there was one brilliant particular star that started and won here the past week that looks good to about every horseman on the grounds and many fellows would like to own him.

That horse is Samar, winner of the 2:18 trot on Wednesday, that trotted the three fastest miles over a half mile track this year and incidentally equalled the track race trotting record of 2:12. Samar is just a little mite of a horse, weighing only eight hundred pounds, but he is a genuine pure trotter. George Ketcham, best known as the breeder, trainer and driver of the world's trotting champion stallion, Crescens 2:02 3/4, came here from Toledo to buy the little horse for export to Europe, but finally decided not to take him although he likes him great. Ketcham annually buys a number of the very best American trotters for Mr. Louis Winans, an Englishman who is a great lover of the trotters and annually campaigns a big stable of horses over the European tracks under the direction of Al Penock, of Cleveland, who formerly used to race here. In Europe all trotting races are started from a standing position, that is the horses are standing still when the bell rings and they necessarily have to be trotters that can get under way quickly and that can get on their stride within a few yards. After much consideration and carefully watching Samar race, Mr. Ketcham came to the conclusion that the little horse would not be successful in these kind of events as he seems to be a horse that would do best at the old fashioned American manner of starting. $5,000 is the price on Samar, it is understood. Ketcham last fall bought the undefeated Allen Warner, winner of the first American Trotting Derby, paying the neat sum of $50,000 for him. Mr. Ketcham acting as agent for Mr. Winans. He also bought the dapper little horse, Shiko for $25,000.

Omega Elder, the bay pacer mare by Box Elder, recently lowered her record to 2:12 1/4 in a winning five-hundred race. She is owned by J. S. Vipond, of Altoona, Pa., and was the last colt ever sired by Box Elder which is the sire of the unbeaten half mile track free-for-all, Major Malow 2:05 1/2.

The West Virginia stable from the Keyser Stock Farm, owned by Col. Tom Davis is cutting a big swath over the half mile tracks of the Middle States this season. The farm is the home of The Initiator 2:14 1/4 and every horse in the racing stable is by this good sire. Minitie 2:09 1/4 is the fastest by the records.

Omega Elder, the bay pacer mare by Box Elder, recently lowered her record to 2:12 1/4 in a winning five-hundred race. She is owned by J. S. Vipond, of Altoona, Pa., and was the last colt ever sired by Box Elder which is the sire of the unbeaten half mile track free-for-all, Major Malow 2:05 1/2.

consider this colt the best bit of horseflesh now racing in America.

COMING TO AMERICA
PROPOSED MATCH BETWEEN
KAUFMAN AND JOHNSON
SEEMS OFF THE BOARDS
AGAIN.

By JEFF THOMPSON.
By Hearst News Service.
New York, July 24.—Stanley Ketchel vs. Sam Langford, terrands, at New York. That is the latest thing on the pugilistic carpet
not that the bout is above outlands, a certainty, but there is a very good chance if the crowds at Ely fail to make good that a strong bid will be made by New York promoters for the fight. It ought to be a paying proposition.

Despite the fact the Ketchel made a poor a showing with Papke, the New York sporting public is convinced the cowboy is a fighting mater of the first class, while Langford's prowess in the ring is well established. These two men should put up a great battle. Willis Britt may be depended upon not to let Ketchel get the idea into his head that Blackburn can be trifled with. The assassin therefore, will go into the ring fit to fight and with his osamanum unbreakable.

A victory over Langford would make the fight with Johnson a championship battle right, and would increase public interest in the bill tenfold.

My own idea is that Ketchel will take Langford's measure. The negro has reached the age when pugilists go back, while Ketchel is getting better every day.

Jimma de Jeff says the man who says he is edging out of his fight with Johnson is all kinds of a pre-varicator, not to use the "ugly and storter" there is.

Jem Driscoll and Owen Moran
have been matched to box twenty rounds in England for the featherweight championship of the world.
There's a card Jim Crofford overlooked. It's a tough bout to pick.
Driscoll is a whole lot faster than Moran in a way but as regards the slam and that stuff called "stamina," Owen has first call.

We have English champions, Dutch champions and champions of other nationalities come to our shores for
"logs and guerdons" and now a real French champion fighter is to be in our midst eager for fame and duets
ere the show flies.

Frank Erns, former light-weight champion of the world, who is at present in Paris, will return to the states in September, and with him
will have Marcel Moreau, the French welterweight champion. Honey Mel-lody, who is home brought us the news and Melody says that Frank expects to startle the world with the French wonder.

"In Paris they think that Moreau
is the greatest fighter that ever lived," says Honey. "I tried to have the promoters put me on with him for an open-air fight, but as they never had such an affair on the other side, the promoters were afraid of it, and consequently the thing fell through. I've seen Moreau box a number of times and, although he is a terrific hitter with his right and has a dandy left jab, I know that I can get into him and take that French title away."

"Am I going back. Oh yes, I'll return in the fall. I have a contract in my pocket which calls for three fights and Willie Lewis will be one of them. I got fresh with my fight with Lewis, and he dropped me clean.
I was down four times before they gave me the count, and at that had only four days' training. I'll get him the next time. I'm going up to Boston now, and want to get a few fights under my belt before I go across again."

Young Corbett's hard work has made a hit with the Frisco sports.
The former champion seems to be in earnest in his determination to regain his laurels and there are those who believe he has a chance.

For little fellows those bantam-weights are causing a lot of talk around this part of the country. The elimination process wasn't so very successful in view of the fact that there was but one throw in the dic-tard.

Why would it not be a good idea,
in view of the inability of local clubs
to hold anything longer than ten rounds and the fact that neither Mc-Govern nor Goldman can show above
the other in that distance, that Wagner fight and then the others.
Then if both win over Wagner, let the pair get out in the woods some place and fight it out if a California club doesn't care for the match.

Billy Delaney is the latest to get cold feet. After letting Charley Harvey yell his head off about Kaufman wanting to fight Johnson, the veteran handier now thinks that Al
needs more time for work for a fight with the black man and says he wouldn't think of letting the youngster go in the ring with Jack in August. There was a whole lot of time and space wasted. We will soon have to make those managers put up a security bond when they talk fight.

The Ohio pacer mare, Helen Herr
2:14 1/4, by Dr. Herr, is to be sent on a Grand Circuit this year. She is owned by Dr. L. E. Baker, of Me-chanicsburg, O., and stepped a mile in early June over a half mile track
in 2:12.

By Hearst News Service.

New York, July 24.—The baseball struggle is going forward with its usual ups and downs with the Pirates and Tigers holding comfortable leads in their respective leagues. It is to be remarked that the runners-up in both leagues, however, are playing winning ball and the leaders must keep on their tiptoes all the time to hold first place.
It would not surprise me in the least
if the end of the season should ap-plicate the hair-raising, heart-stopping finish of last season. Let us hope it does. It is strange how evenly matched the American league teams are every season. This year it looks a toss-up between the Athletics, Tigers, Naps and Red Sox, with the Yanks, Browns and White Sox having a fighting chance.

Is the National league it is the old struggle between the Pirates, Cubs and Giants, with Cincinnati and Philadelphia off chances.

If Mike Donlin comes back with the Giants the chances of the New Yorkers will be very considerably improved. Mike is strong when the Giants are weak in batting. Unless Mike aspires and is offered the chance to go to work as a regular actor he will find it a tedious summer unless he plays ball. He has kept himself in good trim, however.
I hear by playing handball, taking long runs, and practicing with various baseball teams. According to Joe Humphries, Mike's original friend in New York erstwhile captain of the Giants is in such good shape that he can get in the game
at once. A few months ago Donlin was reported in bad health, but while he is thin he is strong now. Since he has ceased to polish brass rails
with his shoes Michael has not taken on flesh.

The question of Donlin's eligibility is not an intricate problem. Last spring John T. Bush wrote Mike congratulating him on his success in Cleveland, although regretting his retirement from baseball. At that time Donlin had put a price on his baseball talents that was prohibitive.
He meant it to be and would have been disappointed if the club had accepted his terms for he has earned far more in baseball than he could possibly have asked for playing ball.
Therefore the relations between Don-lin and the New York club is a sort of protracted truce. Mike can come back any time and the words he can expect is the old regulation national commission fine of $100, half of which will be remitted as soon as it is imposed.

McGraw is just as independent as Donlin. He has not corresponded with Mike and will not run after him to offer him the old job. But if circumstances bring about a situation where Donlin, like Barkis, is "willed" McGraw will hand over a uniform
without delay.

George Browne, the former Giant and Dove is batting like a demon for the Senators. He got four hits in the first Tiger-Senate game, but even
at that his team couldn't win.

The Naps have added another pitcher to their roster. He is Harry Otis, of the Goldsboro club of the Eastern California League.

President Ebbets is going like a house afire now. He is out to get the good ones. Three purchases up to date are: Wheat, outfielder from Mobile; Myers, shortstop from Anderson, S. C.; Findlayson, a pitcher from Brockton. The latter was with Brooklyn. He is a native of Scottish, a smart right hand twirler,
and he has a bunch of friends here
to root for him.

Joe Cantillon denies the report that he is going to quit managing the Senators at the end of August.
It is one of the most particular duties of a baseball manager to deny all reports that relate to jobs which,
whether true or otherwise,

Special Cable to the Sunday News.

Paris, July 24.—There have been some interesting revelations in a case against a couple named Tal-lance who were charged before the Marine Correctional Chamber with exploiting the credulity of a simple-minded public. The Talances came to Paris in 1905 and gave thought leading demonstrations. After a while they abandoned this form of entertainment and went in for astrology. They did a good business in selling talismans and what they described as magnetized water, which was supposed to possess remarkable properties. Three drops of this water had to be used every Friday evening and the simpletons who placed their faith in it were expected to offer in a low voice the wish nearest their hearts. Those wishes were expressed in a special formula provided with the water. It ran: "I desire to marry—I want to give me some money. I want to love me. I desire that my uncle may make me his heir, that my lover will be faithful, that my children will be rich, etc. The Talances turned a formula in which it was pointed out their secrets could be obtained by paying to France for a box of myrrh. They sold a skin covered with magic characters, which it was declared would prolong life indefinitely. This skin, cost 100 francs. Then there was a magic stone, which would discover hidden treasures. It cost 15 francs. Another talisman consisted of four grains from the coffin of a newly-born child. It cost 10 francs. Astor of love, which could attract to the

who wore it, indifferent or black porcelain, was sold for 10 francs.

The claims of the magicians were substantiated. Many resided in the provinces. There was a dealer in omelets of Paris who wanted his business to prosper, a native of Alsace who wanted to know if he could use the magnetized water on any day except Friday, an ironist of Lyons who was anxious that her runaway husband should return to her, and a number of people who wished to recover

their wealth and win lottery prizes.

that he invoked the divinity in the name of those of big clients who

that he himself firmly believed in the efficacy of his wife. She was known as

"the woman" because that was placed up in her husband's attitude. The court will decide next whether the Talances are magical or swindlers.

Special Cable to the Sunday News.

Paris, July 24.—All Paris is talking about a curious decision in the divorce court this week, in which it was declared that the existence of a purely intellectual friendship between the husband and a male friend constituted justifiable grounds for divorce in favor of the wife. In the decision it was explicitly declared that no suspicion of immorality need

exist and that it simply the husband

neglected his wife for the pleasure of companionship with a member of his own sex, she could claim that he was suffering from "brain hysteria,"

provided she was able to prove that she had protested and all to no use.

The whereabouts of this decision are numerous and complicated and they have created little short of consternation in a community where divorce

has been always frowned on perhaps more than elsewhere.

The parties concerned are members of the fashionable life of Paris who are usually at Toulon at this time of year, but who have stayed over for a settlement of the case. The husband refused to forbid his friend

his house and the wife told the court that he showed no interest in the fact that he was shortly to be a father.

The husband replied that he never had been told the fact, any way it made no difference.

As for the principle concerned,

namely, can a French husband have intimate friendships with members of his own sex, perhaps old school friends, without infringing the rights of the wife, the court explicitly replied no, not when such companionships lead him to neglect both his wife and the interests of his home.

Special Cable to the Sunday News.

London, July 24.—Mrs. Despard,

one of the most frantic Suffragette

leaders in England, this afternoon

in Trafalgar Square, boasted

that she was the only person in England, who for 2 years had paid no government taxes. The government

(said Mrs. Despard) did not know exactly what to do with her. The matter went from court to court, and several times she was threatened with arrest. She was not arrested, but one day some gentlemen came to her house and took some of her goods away. The newspapers called them "loaves." The things went to three different auctions, and all refused to sell them. At last the government officials went to another firm and did not tell them the circumstances. When she asked the firm on the day before the original date of the sale if they knew the goods were hers, she learned that they had only heard that very morning. The sale was put off. The goods were now going to be sold, and she supposed the authorities would have to take her furniture. She believed they must not take one's bed and must leave a chair. As there was several members of the family

they would have to sit on the chair

in turn. Afterwards she would hire take her. They might go on seizing which, as stated yesterday, the Bridge House Estates Committee of the Corporation have decided to recommend. The funds will be provided from this Bridge House estate

of which has already been built within recent years the magnificent

Tower Bridge.

The existence of this estate is due to the gifts of English men and women, dating from as far back as the founding of the first London Bridge

and the administration of the property through hundreds of years has resulted in a unique advantage to the citizens, who in this instance will

if the scheme be sanctioned, have a much needed viaduct and a handsome passage across the Thames provided free of cost to them.

The last of the dreadful "Ripper"

tragedies, the murder of Mary Jane

Kelly, at Miller's court, Spitalfields,

has been a crime committed very close to the same spot in the small hours of yesterday morning.

Miller's court is a group of white-washed cottages used as lodging

houses, and abutting upon Duval street, E. In one of the rooms, two doctors from the house, once occupied

by Mary Jane Kelly, a young woman named Kitty Roman has been lodging

for the past two years. At one o'clock yesterday morning, she was found dead on her bed, with her throat cut.

"Little Kitty," as the girl was generally known, was an unfortunate only 19 years of age and sometimes worked as an ironer. At about seven o'clock on Thursday night she was seen to enter the house with a man

described to a representative of The Daily News as rather sallow-like,

about middle height and with his dark overcoat collar turned up.

Half an hour later this man was seen to leave the court and make

for Whitechapel road by way of Commercial street. After the issue of another half hour, the young man with whom the young girl had been lodging for some weeks came home

immediately afterwards he rushed

downstairs and into the court

shrieking "Oh, my God, Kitty is dead." This summoned the son of the lodging house deputy rushed

into the little room and found

Kitty Roman stretched on the bed

with her throat frightfully gashed.

By her side lay a formidable jack-

knife, which had evidently been used by the murderer.

hastily summoned found that it was

SUCCESSFUL

Close to an Ideal Program

Marked Last day of

Lima Races

UNFINISHED EVENTS FROM THURSDAY WERE REELED OFF RAPIDLY.

FAST TIME RECORDED IN THE BALANCED TROTTING.

WAVERLY, IDEWISSE AND TOM T. CARRIED HOME THE RICH PURSES.

Fred C. was the hot tip in the 2:15 pace, but Charley Thomas and Idewisse were also liked. Fred took the first heat in handy style, but in the second the Findlay horse was a mean opponent, and came just a second faster than did Fred in the initial trial, taking the heat in 2:14 1/2. In the third, Lady Posey took the lead and held on like grim death to the stretch, where Idewisse shot past, beating her ladyship in the sprint. The fourth heat saw the real going, Cliff Todd and his Radium, the old Lima mare, were sent to the barn under the "not standing for the money" rule, and the race settled down among the four real contenders. Idewisse lost his stride on the first turn, and Fred C. put daylight between himself and the trailers, but the gelding came back to himself and gave chase. The pace was too fast and he again went into the air. Fred C. taking the heat in 2:13 1/2, the fastest trotted mile on a two-lap ring this season. The last heat went to the Columbus gelding with Charley Thomas second.

The many friends of George Castle, owner of Gold Standard, and a regular visitor to the races, applauded the Chicago theatrical magnate when his Miss Castle took the first heat of the 2:13 pace, but she could not repeat and Waverly caught her on the half, having an easy time after a brush in the back stretch. Harry Mac tried hard in the second heat, but the Greene county farm-nag could not cut the pace, and the third saw Waverly romp home.

Tom T. was the whole show in the 2:21 pace, L. T. B. showing speed now and then, but being very unsteady at all stages. Lady Ashwood fought it out with the pole nag in the second heat and pushed Tom hard to the wire. The last was a repeater of other heats and the money went to Tom.

game sport never gives up and promoters of high-class harness racing never say die, no matter what the weather men may have up his sleeve.

Old Mr. Weather Man did his best to mar the Lima races this year, but he just missed doing it, for the management put one over yesterday, and the Sun god aided. There was a nice crowd out, a big crowd with the stand more than well filled. A larger crowd in fact, than any other day save Thursday, and this means a successful close for the July meeting with the balance on the right side of the ledger.

The track was fast, so fleet in fact, that the speediest mile as yet trotted over an oval this year of the two-lap variety, was reeled off. It was Favorites day on the whole, with the guessing easy after first heats, save in one race—the 2:15 trot. Here the leaders mixed it up so thoroughly and well, that the "tout" had as hard a time explaining what he had said before, as does our good friend, City Engineer Brice.

The unfinished events from Thursday required but four heats to determine.

The Unfinished Events. There was nothing to it but Camille in the 2:24 trot and getting away nicely she was never headed or in danger, having but the one contestant, Lazarus.

The one other unfinished race showed a pretty contest, but Ella M led the entire distance and was easily the winner.

The entire three unfinished races from Thursday, requiring two heats of the pace, were over by 2:15, and the regular program started.

Tight-Waddo the Monk,

Coney Isle and Bombiloo

By WEX JONES

IN Bombiloo, the beautiful, where the natives at their ease recline beneath the palm trees and enjoy the cooling breeze. The only fun they used to have was rolling on the sand and sleeping, sleeping, sleeping, sleeping to beat the band. They had no chess or billiards and they hadn't got a show. And out of doors was the only place to which a sport could go. Yet the Bombilooos somehow appeared to be content with the idyllic manner in which their time was spent.

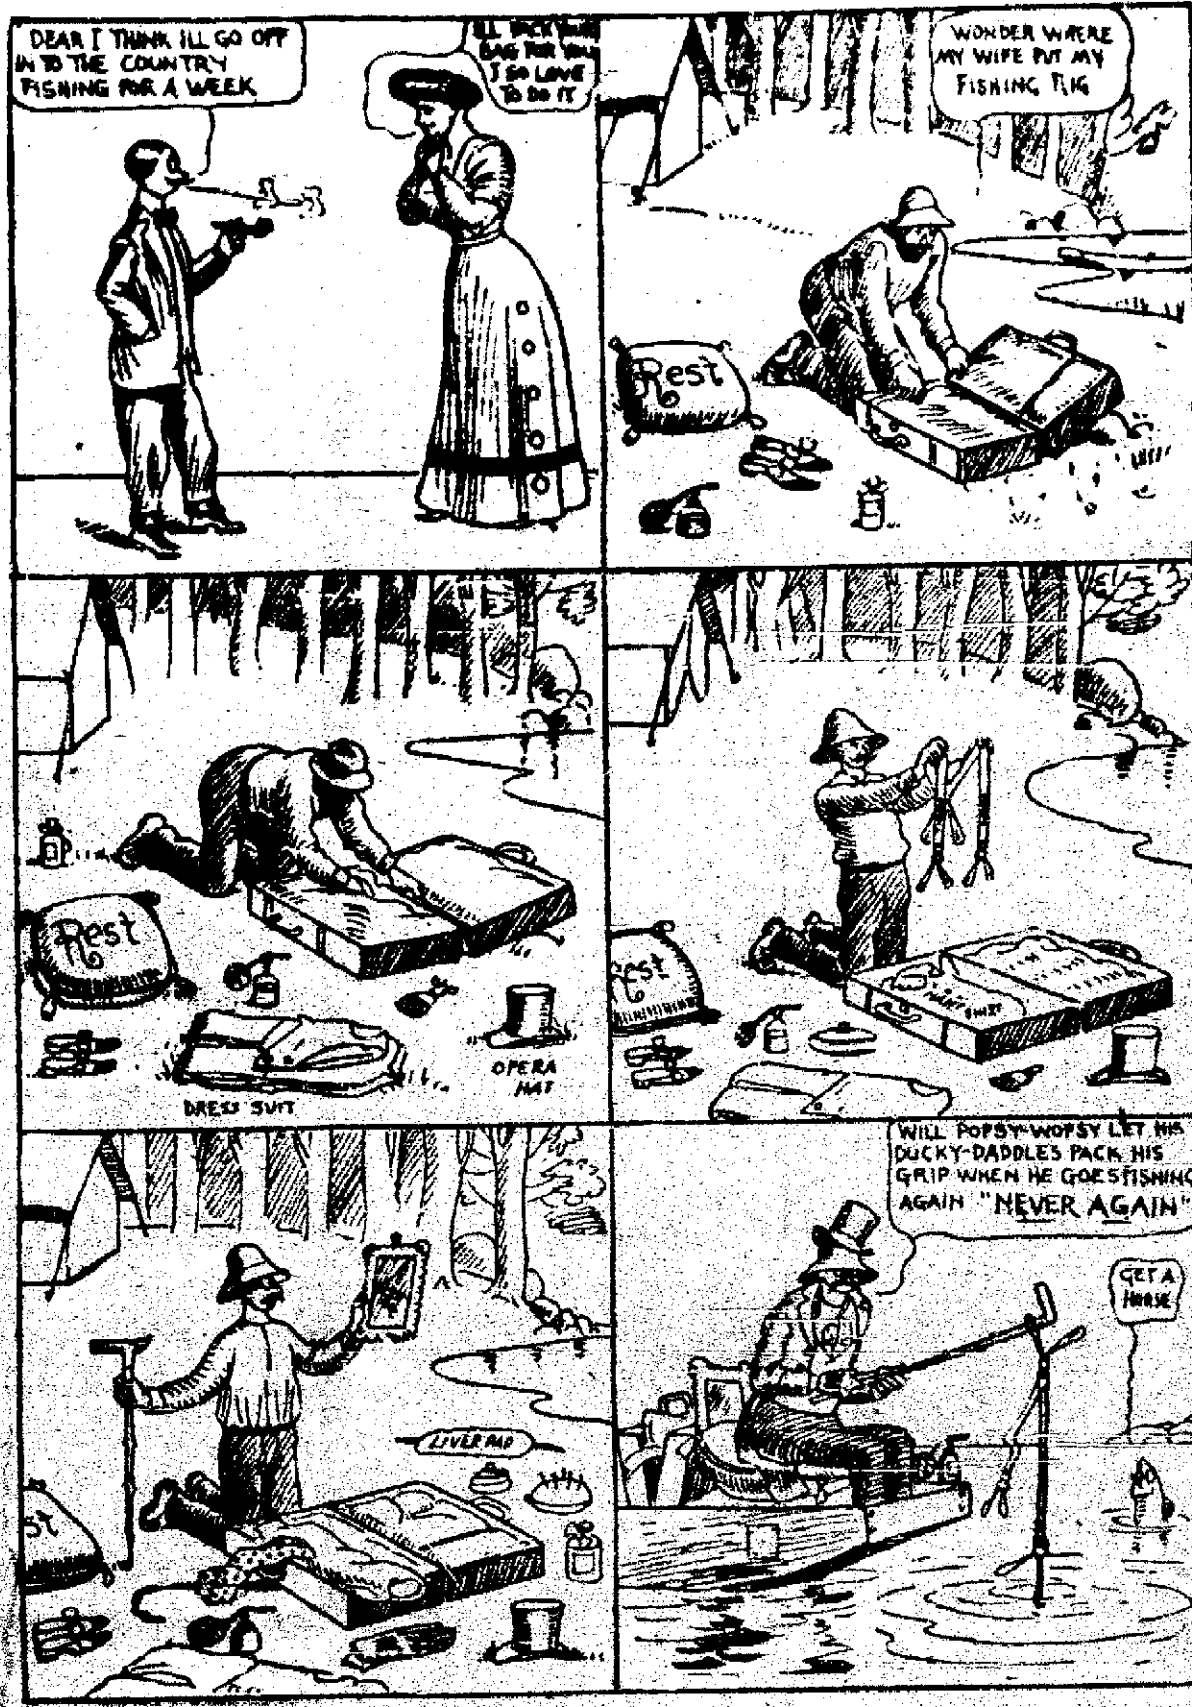

But there came unto the island a man who'd travelled far. And he struck the snoozing natives with a most astounding jar. He said, "I'll have to wake 'em up and drag 'em from their huts. And make themselves aware that, while the older natives laughed, the youngster rolled away to build a park where every one would have to come and play. And though he met discouragement, he only tolled the more. Until at last the job was done and he opened wide the door.

The curious natives flocked inside to spend their leisure time. And seemed to think the shows they found were full of bubbling fun. One game was climbing up a tree, whereupon the tree was felled. And the climber lit upon his head. While the joyous watchers yelled. Another was a bathing pool where swimming seemed a lark. Till the last one who in splashing was ribbed by a shark. So by making folks ridiculous for other folks to smile, the stranger piled up coconuts, the Cressus of the isle.

POSED AS HERO

With Badge Won by a Man Now Dead.

Special to the Sunday News

Duison, O. July 24.—Confessing that he never experienced a single day's service in the war, though he wore a soldier's uniform, displayed several medals indicating that he had been the central figure in heroic action on the field of battle, and had been an inmate of the Soldiers' Home John Wade, colored, otherwise known as Washington Johnson was today stripped of his badges and brass buttons upon orders from Assistant United States Attorney Moulton, of Cincinnati, and remanded to jail.

Wade was charged with falsely applying for a pension. He had applied several times at Cincinnati and had been turned down.

He also had been arrested at the local Soldiers' Home for illegally selling whisky.

In the Federal Court at Cincinnati he escaped with a light sentence because of his supposed brilliant war record and his conspicuous bravery on the field as indicated by the badges he wore. It is claimed that Johnson's application is endorsed by an Ohioan and that other arrests may follow.

CANDIDATES

Are Starting the work of Securing the Necessary
Voters

GEORGE DYER IS IN THE OPEN
FOR REPUBLICAN MAYOR-
ALITY PLUM.

FORMER SERVER THOMAS
AND CUNNINGHAM ANNOUNCE

BOWSER, COLLINS AND KIRK
HOPE TO REPEAT AS COUN-CIL MEMBERS.

The petitions under the new primary law are appearing on all sides now, and the voters can scarce walk a block without being hailed. The greatest interest centers in the men who will seek the nomination for Mayor. Up until midnight last night there was but one pronounced candidate, George Dyer, superintendent of the Lake Erie & Western, has started his nomination papers and is securing the necessary signatures.

For vice-Mayor or President of the council Dr. M. S. Bowser will again go before the voters. In the council chamber Thomas Collins will come forward for another honor from the second ward, and Torey Kirk also wants to stay. Prominently mentioned but not as yet starting his papers is Becker Gus. Kalb, who has been requested to make the race for councilman-at-large.

The city treasurer fight promises much interest. John Thomas, member of Lima's first Board of Public Service, is well under way with his papers; while P. C. Cunningham, assistant cashier of the First National is just as diligently busy, and will contest Thomas' desires before the primary voters.

There is little doing on the Democratic side of the house. Kent W. Hughes will probably oppose City Solicitor W. L. Rogers, who naturally seeks a second term. Clem S. Baxter may again be the party's candidate for treasurer, while Mayor Fred C. Becker is to head the ticket but little more than this is known. It may also be stated that Auditor Fred C. Beam will endeavor to repeat.

Many voters have been interested in knowing in just what precinct they will be located under the new addition of nine voting booths and The News prints for the first time the official division as set forth by the Board of Elections. Glance over it and see just where you will be:

About 2 o'clock a delicious luncheon was served consisting of sandwiches, heese, pickles, nabiscos, cake, coffee, muskmelon, and oranges. After he lunch a fine program of music and moving pictures was enjoyed by all, when all again proceeded to fish, catching a fine string of fish. The tired but happy crowd, who was Miss Lena Turry, Miss Lenore Good, Miss Noma Briden, Mrs. Abe Good, Jr., Carl Rothrock, and Mrs. Allen leave boarded the 6:02 car back to Lima declaring it a most enjoyable day.

There are many small courtesies to be observed in conversation. These are to look people in the face when speaking, not to let the glance or the attention wander, not to show impatience in listening, not to interrupt, not to monopolize the conversation, not to talk of one's self, but to try to be interested in the interest of others.

Practice makes perfect in all things, and by practice one may attain ease and grace of manners. Perfection in good manners consists in maintaining self-control instinctively without thinking about it. In the best manners there is no trace of self consciousness and all is kindness and simplicity.

Mrs. George Carter will be at home to the fortnightly bridge on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

Mr. Clarence Penwell, enroute to Chicago from Enid, Okla., spent several days of last week with relatives and friends here.

Forming a table of bridge at the home of Miss Gertrude Finley on Friday afternoon were Mrs. A. D. Cinsely, Mrs. Leroy Galvin and Mrs. George W. Barnes, of Muskogee, Okla. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the game.

Zettitz, Mrs. Clara Brotherton, the Misses Holland, Mrs. Fred Becker, Miss Pauline Jones, Mrs. Robert Thrift, Mrs. George Thrift, Mrs. M. P. Colt, Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Pratt Maple.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Harman, and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bell left yesterday for a ten day outing on the Great Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pursell King were the gracious host and hostess at a charming dinner given at the Country Club on Friday evening. Massed white lilies were used in decoration of the table, laid in the dining room, which held covers for twelve. The menu consisted of the following delicious courses:

Cream of Tomato Bisque	Wafers
Celery	Olives
Broiled Chicken	Creamed Potatoes
New Peas	Cherry Preserves
Cucumber Salad,
	with French Dressing
	Orange Ice
Cakes	Coffee
	Candies

Surrounding the table were Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Knisely, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Hepburn, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Platt, Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. McLaughlin, Miss Hilda Hutchinson, and Mr. Dwight L. Goodyear.

Mr. A. L. White and Mr. E. M. Gooding will spend several days of this week in Detroit.

One of the pre-ttiest affairs of the season among the younger set, was the delightful dancing party given at McBeth park, on Thursday evening, by Miss Ruby Lynde, for the pleasure of her guest, Miss Mabel Congleton, of New Philadelphia. The pavilion at the park presented a beautiful picture, with its effective decorations of flags, hunting and mythical figures, with electric lights, together with Miss Clementine and Miss Mary Richie, of Wyoming are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Selfridge.

This advice, which is the very best, founded as it is upon the highest authority, is addressed to all women who desire to dress well; follow the fashion each season, but learn how to adapt them to your individual type. Once this knowledge is gained and put into practice, a well dressed woman is the result. Our streets and public places are filled with girls and women of all ages who only look at each article of wear newly come into fashion as the most desirable thing for them to buy and wear—no other thought enters their minds than to possess it and dispose themselves in it. Whether they are of robust or slender build, short or tall, heavy and massive, or like a rail for shapeless thinness, they do not recognize any of these characteristics as having to do with the fashions seen on forms in the show windows. The model takes their fancy—that is enough—they buy it.

This is how vast numbers of women understand being fashionably dressed and who year after year complacently make such frights of themselves.—Vogue.

When You Receive Your Salary Check

It would be a good time to start your bank account or add something to the one you are already carrying. A good idea would be to deposit the entire amount received and make checks for your bills. In this way you could permit your monthly "appropriation" to remain to your credit after everything has been paid. Every month that you increase will be a step on the road to independence, and it will soon surprise you how fast your balance grows. Profit by the experience of others, for the successful men who are enjoying comforts now are those who started by saving. Modern progress has made a bank account within the reach of every one.

AMUSEMENTS.

The people that have visited Hoyer park the past week pronounce the attraction at the Air Dome the best of the season. Jimmie Rose, the character man, is of the best, while his son and daughter hold the audience spell-bound with their wonderful bicycle riding and roller skating. There seems nothing impossible for these two to do in the line of performing on roller skates and bicycles. The first act is composed of home talent, and is greatly appreciated by all that see it.

THE MIDSUMMER ENTERTAINMENT.

The midsummer entertainment announced in our columns early this week is creating widespread interest among the musicians of this section. Four male choruses are expected in the contest. The indications also point to five mixed choruses upon Lord's beautiful glee. "The Last Rose." Parties will be in attendance from Van Wert, Venetia, Gomer, St. Marys, and Lima will have a very spirited contest between two parties of singers. Mr. Robert Peat combining the choir of the Congregational church and the members of Trinity choir, and taking a number of selected voices in addition to these, will be heard from in competition. Miss Millie Soultas will also have a party made up of the members of the choir of the First Baptist church, members of the choir of the German Reformed church, and additional selected voices from other choirs of the city, so that the local interest will be very much heightened by the two parties in the contest. Smaller parties will be in on the smaller numbers, from Bellefontaine, Findlay, Fostoria, Tiffin, Ada, and it is expected that Kenton, and perhaps Bucyrus will have representatives. The contest taking place at the McCullough Lake auditorium, will make it a cool and pleasant as well as exciting place to spend the afternoon and evening of the date selected, August 3rd, which comes one week from next Tuesday.

H. Maurice Tuttle, of Milwaukee, yesterday completed the painting of the beautiful scenery which is to be carried by Hyde's Theater Party next season. The members of the company will report here for rehearsal Wednesday.

Anna Bassett is credited with a big hit in one of the leading roles of "The Gay Hussars" which was given its initial production at Atlantic City, last week. The opera is an English adaptation of "Ein Herbstmanöver," in three acts and deals with a love story developed in connection with the Austrian army. Orrin Johnson, who played the leading role in "The Man of the Hour," at the Fairport two years ago, was also in the cast.

The whole town seems to be taking to the moving picture entertainments at the Fairport. Last night, the theater was crowded from the opening to the close of the clever show. Tonight two new pictorial features will be shown in "Only a Dream" and "A Sure Cure." Both are comedy pictures and full of laughs.

Samples of the lithograph work which has just been completed for Hyde's Theater Party were received last week by manager Cunningham. The entire series is in a tasteful combination of brown, dark blue and white and is as pretty a line of paper as above adorned a bill board. It was designed and printed by the Enquirer Co., of Cincinnati.

DON'T MISS SEEING.

Prof. Nupman make the high dive at Hoyer Park, Sunday afternoon and evening. Dives off scaffold 100 feet high.

WAPAKONETA.

Miss Susie Martin has gone to Forest, where she will be the guest of Miss Eckleberry for some time.
Little Miss Emma Porter, of Wayneville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Tony Zeigler for several days last week.
Mrs. Mary Purringer, of Tiffin, is the guest of Mrs. Mary Braun.
Charles Kahn, and sister, Mrs. Hannah Seigel have been visiting friends in Cincinnati for several days past.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Jacobs, of Sidney, Iowa, who have been visiting relatives in this city, have started on their return trip to their home, but will stop at several points en route.
Miss Mabel Keifer has gone to West Milton, where she will spend several weeks with relatives and friends.

Miss Esther Longworth left during the week for St. Marys, to spend some time with friends at Sandy Beach.
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitehead have returned from a pleasant visit of ten days at Detroit and St. Clair Falls. They were accompanied by Miss Kent, of Detroit, who will be their guest.

Mrs. Al Alperman has gone to Rome City, Indiana, where she will spend two weeks with Mrs. Freeling of Hamilton, who has a cottage at the resort.

Miss Irene Martin, of Pittsburg, is the guest of Miss Lillian Timmermeister.

Mrs. Wilbur Dingler has returned to her home in Marion, after a visit with friends and relatives here.
Miss Zenith Garmen, of Colma, visited Wapakoneta friends the past week.

CHAPTER XIII. THE LETTER.

As Lady Creech and Hawcastle entered the garden, where Horace was still holding the hand of the fair countess, they encountered Almeric, who was strolling in aimlessly from the direction of the village. Hawcastle beckoned to him.

"Anything unusual down there?" he asked, pointing to the village.
"Rawther! Carabiniere still hunting that bandit chap," said his hopeful son laughingly.

"Don't mumble your words!" snapped the old lady, and Horace and madame turned sharply and confusedly. Almeric made a gesture of impatience and, putting his head close to his respected aunt's ear, shouted:

"Hunting a bally bandit!" at which the old woman screamed sharply. Hawcastle took him by the shoulder.

"What do they say about him?" he demanded.

"That he is still in the neighborhood," replied his heir, with a languid sigh.

"What did I tell you?" asked Lady Creech triumphantly. And the earl made a gesture of impatience.

"Almeric, find your betrothed and bring her here," he said. And the young man trotted off slowly. Horace came slowly forward.

"What's the row, sir?" he asked, and the earl smiled.

"My dear young man," he said, "I congratulate you that you and your sister need no longer submit to an odious dictation."

He was about to say more, but at that moment Daniel came down the steps and walked across the grass to the motor. As he passed the group he smiled genially and observed:

"Looks to me as if it was going to clear up cold."

"Good afternoon, Mr. Pike," answered the earl and motioned the others to leave.

Pike merely nodded his head, and Hawcastle came up to him.

"It is a pity that there should have been any misunderstanding in the matter of your ward's betrothal," he said, and Pike smiled grimly.

"Oh, I wouldn't call it a misunderstanding," he said, and the earl went on.

"It would ill become a father to press upon the subject of his son's betrothal," he began, but Pike cut him short.

"I won't talk with you about him," he said. "I don't want to hurt your feelings."

Hawcastle glared at him and was about to reply when Mariano entered with a letter on a tray, which he handed to the lawyer, who regarded it curiously. There was a growing tension in the earl's attitude, and as his anger grew his suavity grew with it.

"There is another matter to which I want to call your attention," he went on, and Pike answered him at once.

"I'll talk about anything else with you," he replied and looked up to see Ethel coming down the steps. She came forward to the earl and said:

"You wished me to come here?"

"I wish to tell you that I see light breaking through the clouds. Have another talk with our friend here, and believe me, all will be well."

With a bow he left the garden, and Ethel stood staring after him. Pike looked up quickly from the letter he was reading and crossed over to her.

"I'm glad you've come," he said.

"I've got something here I want to read to you. When I got your letter at home I wrote to Jim Cooley, our vice consul in London, to look up those Hawcastle folks and write me here how they stand."

"You did that?" she cried in anger.

"You had the audacity to pry into the affairs of the Earl of Hawcastle?"

"Why, I'd 'a' done that if it'd been the governor of Indiana himself," he replied, with surprise. "Besides, Jim Cooley's 'home folks.' His office used to be right next door to mine in Kokomo. I haven't opened the letter yet, but I haven't much doubt but Jim'll have some statements in it that'll show you I'm right about these people."

"How do you know that?" she demanded heatedly.

"Because I've had experience enough of life."

"In Kokomo?" she asked scornfully.

"Yes, ma'am," he answered. "There's just as many kinds of people in Kokomo as there is in Pekin, and I didn't serve a term in the legislature without learning to pick underhand men at sight. Now, that earl, let alone his having a bad eye—his ways are too much on the stripe of T. Cuthbert Bentley's to suit me. T. Cuthbert was a Chicago gentleman, with a fair lined overcoat, that opened up a bank in our town, and when he caught the Canadian express three months later all he left in Kokomo was the sign on the front door. That was painted on. But, there, here's the letter. Read it for yourself."

He handed it to her and watched her while she broke the seal and then began to read:

Dear Dan—The carload of Hawcastle is one of the oldest in the room, and the St. Aubyns have distinguished themselves in the forefront of Russian battles from Agincourt and Crecy to Sebastopol. The present holder of the title came into it by accident. He was a younger son's younger son and had spent some years in Russia in business under another name. Nothing here in his English record is seriously against him, though everything he has is antagonistic to the family.

She finished with a look of triumph. "What a terrible indictment!" she said scornfully. "So that was what you counted on to convince me of my mistake? I shall tell Lord Hawcastle

"What a terrible indictment!" she said.

that you will be willing to take up the matter of the settlement the moment his solicitor arrives."

Pike shook his head sadly.

"No, I wouldn't do that, because I won't take up any settlements with him or any one else."

"Have you after this any objection to my alliance with Mr. St. Aubyn?" she inquired, her anger at white heat.

"It isn't an alliance with Mr. St. Aubyn you're after," he replied calmly. "You're after something there ain't anything to. If I'd let you buy what you want you'd find it as empty as the judgment day the morning after. You think because I'm a jay country lawyer I don't understand. Why, we've got the same thing at home. There was little Annie Hoffmeyer. Her pa was a carpenter and doing well, but Annie could not get into the Kokomo Ladies' Literary society, and her name didn't show up in the society column four or five times every Saturday morning, so she gets her pa to give her the money to marry Artie Seymour, the minister's son, and a regular minister's son he was! Almost broke Annie's heart and her pa's, too, but he let her have her way and went in debt and bought them a house on Main Street. That was two years ago."

Pike paused momentarily.

"Annie's working at the deepo candy stand now," he resumed, "and Artie's working at the hotel bar—in front—drinking up what's left of old man Hoffmeyer's—settlement!"

She hung away from him in a temper and then wheeled on him in a flash.

"And you say you understand—you, who couple the name of a tipping rascal with that of a St. Aubyn, whose ancestors have fought on every field of battle from Crecy and Agincourt to the Crimea?"

"But you won't see much of his ancestors," complained Pike.

"He bears their name," she answered.

"That's it, and it's the name you want. Nobody could look at you and not know it wasn't him! It's the name! And I'd let you buy it if it would make you happy—if you didn't have to take the people with it. Don't you see they're counting on it? The earl—he's counting on living on you!" The Indianan became excited. "Why, a Terro Haute pickpocket could see that! And this old Lady Creech—she's counting on it, and this Frenchwoman that's with them—isn't she trying to land your brother? The whole kit and boodle of them are on the track of John Simpson's money!"

"I gave Almeric my promise. It was forever, and I shall keep it," she answered slowly, as if she had been impressed with his earnestness. He looked at her quietly.

"I'm not going to let you," he replied.

"Then I'll throw your interference to the winds. I shall marry without your consent."

"Do you think they'd let you?" Pike asked quickly. For a moment she stood still, and then came the sound of the guilars from over the wall. Pike went on after a time.

"Sounds kind of foreign and lonesome," he said. "I'd rather hear something that sounded more like home—'Sweet Genevieve,' for instance. You know it, don't you?"

"I used to," she answered, hanging her head. "It's old fashioned and common, isn't it?"

"That's why I like it, I guess," he answered. "I couldn't get you to sing it for me before I go home, could I?"

She looked at him thoughtfully for a moment.

"I'm afraid not," she answered and went quickly into the hotel, leaving him looking after her curiously.

CHAPTER XIV.

BLACKMAIL.

PIKE was still standing with the letter in his hand, looking after Ethel, when he awoke to the realization of what her words meant to him. She had given her promise, and she did not mean that anything in the world should make her revoke it. That promise was sacred to her, just as if it had been spoken before a clergyman.

In his heart Pike knew he would have to give in if he was to make her happy, and yet he knew that in making her temporarily happy he would be making her eternally miserable. If he could have the strength to hold out against her and refuse to sanction the marriage he knew the crew of aristocrats would never accept her without the cash, and that by the terms of John Simpson's will could never be theirs without his consent.

Of his own hopes he could see but the faintest glimmering. He had irretrievably offended the girl, and she would hate him all her life for it, he feared. His entrance into her new phase of life had been unfortunate. His continuance in it was little else than an insult, according to her way of thinking. And Jim Cooley, whom he had trusted to find the law in the Hawcastle escutcheon that he knew had existed, had failed him miserably.

The lawyer felt that he was a long way from home. He sighed and turned to where the sun was sinking in a haze of red across the bay. Then he heard the voice of Horace and chiming with it the cultured accents of Lord Hawcastle. Apparently they were coming to seek him. She had reiterated his refusal.

Wearily he turned again to the automobile and leaned against it. As he did so he heard Horace say:

"But Ethel says Mr. Pike positively refuses."

In return he heard Hawcastle reply: "Leave him to me. In ten minutes he will be as meek as a lamb."

Dumbly Pike wondered what fresh argument the earl had to offer and mentally steeled himself against it. As he looked up he encountered the steady glare of the earl.

"My dear Pike," began the latter, "there is a certain question—"

"I said I would not discuss that with you. I meant what I said," observed Daniel quietly.

"This is another question," went on the other, heedless of the warning of at least unaffected by it.

"Late this afternoon I developed a

"Imagine, for instance, that the shadow which appears upon that curtain were that of the wanted man. Would you not agree then to a reasonable request?"

Daniel swallowed painfully, for he saw in some manner that that swaying window curtain which had caught his eye an hour ago had held a different meaning. It seemed too bad that this should be the end of it all—his defenses he had raised for the girl, his dead friend should be swept away in an instant by a bit of folly.

"What would be the nature of the request?" he asked.

"It would concern a certain alliance—might concern a certain settlement," the earl replied softly.

"If the request were refused, what would the consequences be?" Pike went on, with lowered eyes, for he would not trust himself to meet those of the nobleman.

"Two years at least in prison for the American."

"Looks bad for—that American, eh?" Pike inquired whimsically.

Lord Hawcastle stepped close to him.

"If this fellow countryman of yours were assured that the law would be permitted to take its course if a favorable answer to a certain question were not received in an hour within that hotel, what, in your opinion, would the answer be?"

Pike looked up from the letter he was twisting in his hands, and his thin shoulders took on a squarer attitude. He looked his antagonist squarely in the eye, but he did not raise the tone of his voice.

"It would depend a good deal on which of my countrymen you caught. If it depended on the one I know best he'd tell you he'd see you in hades first."

For an instant the earl looked fixedly at Daniel, and his face went red and white by turns. There was a dangerous dash in his eyes, and he stepped a trifle closer and half raised his walking stick. Then, with a muttered oath, he dropped it, picked up his hat from the bench where he had thrown it and walked to the hotel steps.

"You have an hour," he said, glancing back.

"HED TELL YOU HED SEE YOU IN HADES FIRST."

great anxiety concerning the penalty proscribed by Italian law for those fortunate and impulsive individuals who connive at the escape or concealment of certain unfortunates who are wanted by the police."

Daniel looked at him, with a smile. "So you're all worked up about that, are you?" Hawcastle glared at him, but went on.

"So deeply that I ascertained the penalty for it. For the person whose kind heart has so betrayed him the penalty is two years in prison, and Italian prisons, I am credibly informed, are unpleasant."

Pike ruminated and folded his letter. "Being in jail ain't much like an Elks' carnival," he observed.

"Even a citizen of your admirable country could not escape if he were caught in the act. I will be plain with you."

These last words had an ominous note. "Let us imagine that a badly wanted man appeared upon the person here and made an appeal to one of your countrymen who, for the purposes of argument, is at work upon this car. Say that the too amiable American conceals the fugitive under the automobile and afterward, with the connivance of a friend, deceives the officers of the law and shelters the criminal, say, in a room of that lower suite there."

He looked about in the growing twilight and pointed dramatically to the window. Pike, now thoroughly interested and with his pulse beating a rapid tattoo, followed his finger. The earl went on:

ingly turning. "At the end of that time—we will know what to do."

Daniel must have stood there ten minutes after Hawcastle had gone, and the twilight came down and enveloped him with its softness. As the lights came out here and there he turned and looked over at the windows of Von Grollenhagen's suit and noted the shadow still on the window blind.

"Looks to me like doc's in this thing and ought to be told," he murmured.

He found his way slowly across the grass and up the steps and in another moment tapped upon the door of the German's rooms. The door was opened by Ribiero, who informed him that Von Grollenhagen was dressing. He found his friend adjusting his white cravat before a mirror.

Within five minutes he had acquainted the other with all that had passed and had received a smile in return. Von Grollenhagen refused to take the matter seriously.

"Point," he said. "Surely you can trust this Lord Hawcastle not to mention it. He must know that the consequences for you as well as for me would be, to say the least, disastrous. Surely you made that clear to him."

Daniel smiled gently.

"No," he answered grimly. "He made it clear to me. Two years in jail, and if I don't make up my mind in fifty minutes from now to do what he wants me to do—"

"What is it that he wants you to do?" asked the German.

"The young lady's father trusted me to look after her, and if I won't promise to let her pay $150,000 for that—well, you've seen it around here, haven't you?"

"I have observed it, if you refer to the son of Lord Hawcastle," answered Von Grollenhagen gravely.

"Well, if I don't agree to that Ivanoff goes to Siberia and you and I to jail," Von Grollenhagen looked at him quickly.

"He threatens that! What do you intend to do?"

"I can't agree. There wouldn't be any trouble to it if it was only me. They could land me for two years or twenty. But I can't do what they want, even to let you and Ivanoff out. It ain't my money. All I can do is to hint that you get out right away. Ivanoff can't go. They've got a ring around this place."

"You could get away, too, my friend," said the German, watching him softly. "You had not thought of that?"

"No, sir, and I'm not going to think of it. But you—"

"As for me, I shall go," said Von Grollenhagen, standing up.

"Well, that's part of the load off my mind. I haven't had the nerve to tell that poor fellow in there, though."

Von Grollenhagen motioned to Ribiero.

"Appellez le monsieur la!" he commanded and pointed to the other door of the chamber. The man opened it at once and beckoned to Ivanoff.

"Ivanoff, some unexpected difficulties have arisen," said the German. "The police have discovered your presence here, and persons who wish evil to my friend have threatened to make trouble. He can do nothing further to save you unless he betrays a sacred trust."

"It's the truth, old man," said Daniel feelingly. "I can't do it."

SAY, LADIES.

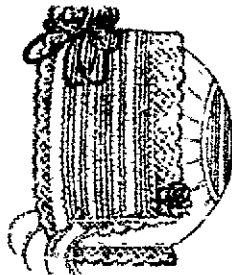

Next Tuesday afternoon we are going to give a sale that would crush any merchant's heart, but it should enthrall every lady for miles around. We have a big stock of choice merchandise to unload, and if you have a grain of appreciation for bargains, Tuesday afternoon's sale will gratify us and make you happy. Never since we started in business have we offered such startling prices on up-to-date merchandise. That as many as possible may get some of these bargains, we will not sell more than two of each article to a customer.

The cream of our silk waist stock, cream and white, beautiful styles, long and short sleeves, former prices $4.25 to $7 your choice Tuesday afternoon, $1.95.

NET WAISTS. All of our fine lace and net waists that were formerly from $4 to $7.50, silk lined, all sizes, choice Tuesday afternoon $2.75.

The very choicest of Lingerie and linen waists, lace and embroidery trimmed, some with laundered collar and cuffs, former prices $2.50 to $4, choice Tuesday afternoon, 98c.

STOCK MARKET IS IN FIRM
HANDS AND BEING HANDLED SKILLFULLY.

CONDITIONS ARE FAVORABLE
FOR BIG BULL MARKET.

ADVICES FROM THE INTERIOR
ARE MOST OPTIMISTIC IN MONTHS.

(By HENRY CLEWS.)
Special to the Sunday News.

New York, July 24.—The stock market at present is dominated by a combination of the most powerful and skillful operators the street has ever seen. These gentlemen and their corps of able lieutenants are energetically engaged in sustaining the market and carrying it to a higher level in order to distribute their surplus holdings of securities. At present prices their profits are exceedingly handsome, but the public show no voracious appetite for their offerings. Apparently, therefore, it is their purpose to save the market from any important decline by creating increased activity and thus widening the speculative movement and stimulating the distribution of stocks.

It must be recognized that conditions are unusually favorable for such operations. Advances from the interior are universally optimistic, and sentiment here is equally hopeful. From the great agricultural regions of the west reports as to crops are very encouraging, and hopes for another profitable season to farmers are gradually approaching realization. The corn crop, the biggest factor in our business outlook, is still improving, and there has been no diminution in the prospects of a bumper yield at very good profits. Even should prices fall below those realized for the last crop, as has been previously pointed out in these advices, it looks as if the farmers of the United States with this year produce somewhere about $5,000,000,000 of new wealth. This is a prodigious amount and must have a very stimulating effect upon commercial, industrial and financial affairs. Bankers in the west are universally hopeful owing to crop conditions. Merchants are not carrying large supplies of goods, and factories are obliged to steadily increase their output. It is true that business does not yield in volume the record attained before the panic, and that owing to inflation of values the actual improvement in business is often not as large as appears. Nevertheless, improvement is the order of the day and the outlook for a satisfactory fall and winter trade in all parts of the country is exceptionally good, especially when the tariff issue is closed, which will now be at an early date.

The monetary situation causes no concern whatever. Western banks claim they will be able to finance autumn requirements without making any serious demands upon their reserves in New York. Nevertheless, the Westward movement of currency must soon begin, and it will be reasonable to anticipate at least some diminution of reserves and slight hardening of rates during that period. So far as Wall Street is concerned, it appears to have about discounted all of those acknowledged favorable conditions. Hence there is no legitimate reason for any further general advance in securities, many of which would doubtless be selling lower were it not for the stubbornness with which they are "pegged." It should be frankly recognized that the big leaders are apparently holding up the market until they have succeeded in unloading a good share of their holdings. When that time arrives a reaction may be expected to occur, and prices will be allowed to recede low enough to enable them to buy back stocks sold at high prices. Although natural conditions are sound, satisfactory and hopeful, the technical situation of the market is highly dangerous, and speculative operations should be strictly limited. It is quite likely that the public will be regaled with some of those "have stocks to sell. Such statements may prove true, but it will be well for buyers of securities to consider the purpose of their promulgation.

Although natural conditions are sound, satisfactory and hopeful, the technical situation of the market is highly dangerous, and speculative operations should be strictly limited. It is quite likely that the public will be regaled with some of those "have stocks to sell. Such statements may prove true, but it will be well for buyers of securities to consider the purpose of their promulgation.

The monetary situation causes no concern whatever. Western banks claim they will be able to finance autumn requirements without making any serious demands upon their reserves in New York. Nevertheless, the Westward movement of currency must soon begin, and it will be reasonable to anticipate at least some diminution of reserves and slight hardening of rates during that period. So far as Wall Street is concerned, it appears to have about discounted all of those acknowledged favorable conditions. Hence there is no legitimate reason for any further general advance in securities, many of which would doubtless be selling lower were it not for the stubbornness with which they are "pegged." It should be frankly recognized that the big leaders are apparently holding up the market until they have succeeded in unloading a good share of their holdings. When that time arrives a reaction may be expected to occur, and prices will be allowed to recede low enough to enable them to buy back stocks sold at high prices. DRY HOLES IN CRUDE FIELDS

WORK WAS A GENERAL DISAPPOINTMENT TO OPERATORS OF EAST.

ALMOST DOUBLE NUMBER OF NEW VENTURES SUNK.

OPERATIONS VERY QUIET ALL THROUGHOUT OHIO AND NORTHWESTERN ILLINOIS.

Though operators were more actively engaged during the past week in the crude oil fields of the central west, the results obtained were most disappointing to them in each of the several fields.

Dry holes came in bunches and were forty-two greater than the week preceding, while in no pool was interest centered because of any gusher or near-gusher well. The results in Illinois and southeastern Ohio were especially disappointing. 31 dry holes being recorded in the former field and 21 in the latter scattered into almost every operating county.

On the seeming theory that the market is on the down-grade and that they should get all the production available before another drop, operators have been hurrying along the field work at a most lively clip and this is true in even the old fields. The Steubenville field was a less important feature this week than for some months, the completion of a number of small producers only leaving but little hope that there is yet remaining any more of the big wells which caused excitement and big bonus prices for leases during the past two months. The total production of the pool which had climbed to nearly 2,500 bbls. a day, has dropped correspondingly and is now good for no better than 1,800 bbls. The recent half-cyclonic storms which have pervaded the central west have done an immense damage to the oil trade, hundreds of derricks scattered over the four states having been blown down, and resulting in a loss of many operating plants. The Steubenville pool has been the richest discovery of the year, but it is now well drilled over and a lull can be expected.

In the development south-east of Columbus in Fairfield and adjoining counties, operations continue to show a near-end to the stock companies unless something is soon found. All the wells have been coming in light in these deep sands and they are being drilled at a heavy expense, an expense almost double that in the other fields. A duster in this field is a most expensive luxury, with little chance opening to recuperate on a second venture even should the latter be a fair producer. But the entire southeastern Ohio wing is now the most active oil field in the country, and even in the districts where only light pumps can be hoped for operators are going ahead with field work, because of the better market. In completed work this field will show for the month an equal if not more completed wells than the big showing in June.

There is being some interest manifested by eastern oil men now over reported discoveries of petroleum in Wyoming, but the field has not been tested sufficiently as yet to determine whether it will become a figure in the world of crude oil. Operations now are in the Big Horn country around the scene of the famous Custer Massacre of 1876.

The markets for all oil fields are firm under the reduction of last week, and the low prices offered for products outside of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and southeastern Ohio will gradually result in a general shut-down, more and more wells being pulled out in the old fields.

PYTHIAN

KNIGHTS WILL GO TO CEDAR POINT NEXT WEEK

THIS EXCURSION WILL BE FOLLOWED BY THE EAGLE'S TRIP ON NEXT SUNDAY.

On next Thursday, July 29, Lima lodge of the Knights of Pythias will run an excursion to Sandusky and Cedar Point for the members of their order and their friends to enjoy a day's outing under the auspices of the local lodge. A special train will be run from this city, starting from Lima, and stopping for passengers only at Beavertown and Bluffton while en route and it is expected that a record breaking week day crowd will participate in the opportunity to visit the great summer resort on an occasion run under the auspices of one of Lima's most popular secret society lodges.

The local Pythians will receive a rebate from the Cedar Point Amusement company for each excursionist taken to the "Point" on the day of this excursion from Lima, Beavertown and Bluffton, and as these rebates are to be used for the entertainment of the Pythians state convention next year, the cause is one that appeals to every public spirited citizen. It is hoped that the excursion will be liberally patronized and the indications are that it will be.

One week from today, Sunday, August 1, Lima Aerie No. 370 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will run another excursion to the "Atlantic City of the west," and this lodge will also receive a rebate from the Cedar Point company and the fund so acquired by the Lima lodge will be appropriated to liquidate the expenses incurred by this lodge in the entertainment of the state convention of the Eagles' order of Ohio which was held in this city the first week in June.

IN HOTEL CORRIDORS.

Lima has been a favorite stopping place for auto parties lately. A party from Toledo, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Sweet, and Miss Mildred Sweet, were at the Lima House Saturday.

At the Norval are Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Dunham in an auto from Gulfport, Miss. Mr. M. C. McClellan, of Toledo, attorney for the Lima Locomotive and Machine Co., is also registered at the Norval.

A. B. Cumming, owner of Rock & Co. and Waverly, horses entered in the races of last week. James Huntley, representing Detroit Stove Works and E. R. Coombs of a large Boston firm, are at the Manhattan.

There was a growing of the rail's attitude and as it grew his suavity grew with it.
